

Silicone Materials

With over 50 years experience of silicone rubber manufacturing we have built an incredible portfolio of compound formulations.

Driven by customer demand and environmental changes, our silicone technologists are continuously developing and improving our materials to suit many types of application.

The diagram below displays our current silicone offerings in both solid and sponge (cellular) silicone rubber.

However, if you don't see a silicone grade required for your application, tell us what you need and we are confident we can develop a solution to meet your requirements.

